ORGANIZATIONS

Requirements aid student participation

New representative requirements developed by the Student Congress officers stimulated involvement. Representatives had to maintain a 2.0 grade average and consistent attendance to be a part of StuCo. Officers also encouraged frequent reports to the homeroom. The parliamentarian cleared confusion by explaining necessary procedures.

Comm. Chrmn. accept ideas of students

To encourage student interest and involvement, Student Congress Committee Chairmen accepted all ideas for careful evaluation. These ideas encouraged improvements in regular STUCO projects and initiated the winter semi-formal dance and a ski trip. To aid future years, chairmen kept records of their projects.

Class officers tackle traditional tasks in '73-'74

After the campaigns and elections of early fall, the twelve class officers immediately tackled their various duties. Senior class officers took on the traditional tasks of the May Senior Day and the gift to the school. Fund-raising and organizational meetings kept Doug Anderson and crew busy throughout the year.

Producing the spring Junior-Senior prom with a budget of $1800 challenged Robin Llewellyn and her three fellow junior class officers. The four girls not only chose the theme, site, and committees but also held car washes and a WPA to earn money. The 1976 class officers, headed by Patrice Brown, sought to make the sophomore's year a good one while gathering ideas for the activities of the next two years.

South Outdoor Society acknowledges nature

To gain knowledge and appreciation of the outdoors while actively protecting the environment, South Outdoor Society members enjoyed several field trips throughout the year. Garage and bake sales helped fund these activities along with a paper collection. Competition among Shawnee Mission schools kept South's categories members programming their minds with trivia. Daily practices prepared their minds and button-punching fingers for action. The Distributive Education Club of America at South worked throughout the year for the chance to attend State and National competitions. In the meantime district DECA clubs joined for breakfasts and meetings to share their ideas. New students found friends in South's New Students' Club. Under the leadership of Phil Larson and Debbie Rose, the club helped the new students adjust to South living.

Fluent French challenges club

Attempts at fluent French kept Le Cercle français members busy along with their many other activities. Trips to the Festival Theatre to view French films, special French dinners, and an adopted family were among their projects.

El Club Amistad, the Spanish club entertained its members with banquet Mexican dinners throughout the year. In addition to the traditional AFS carnival booth, the club joined Center High School Spanish 4 for a party during the year.

New policy welcomes girls to NJROTC classes

NJROTC opened its ranks to girls for the first time ever this year. Eleven girls enrolled for the semester class. The class gave the cadets a basic understanding of the Navy and Naval History. They performed at all pre-game ceremonies at South in addition to many parades and at a Kansas City-Omaha Kings' game.

Under the leadership of C/LCDR Les Landau and C/LCDR Mark Sands, all of the cadets from both first and second semester attended a "mini-boot camp" in Orlando, Florida. Highlighting the year, the Navy Ball took place at Shawnee Mission North. It involved all five of the NJROTC units of the district. In May, an awards ceremony recognized outstanding cadets for their achievements.

Anchorettes assist in fund-raising project

The Anchorettes, an auxiliary unit to South NJROTC; maintained a schedule of hostessing at events such as graduation and Orientation Day. Other activities on the Anchorette calendar included appearing as a saluting unit at basketball and football games, performing in the ROTC Drill Team Competition at Pittsburg, Kansas, and marching in the Veteran's Day parade. A major project for the group involved making cookies and selling tickets for a fund raising fashion show produced by Rosemary Doeren's for Children's Mercy Hospital.

Efforts provide happiness for NFL members

Through dedication and effort, National Forensics League members acquired trophies and honors for South. Students spent an average of 180 hours a semester researching the debate topic or practicing their forensic events. District, state and NFL tournaments concluded the year for most members while winners continued at the national tournament.

South's tournaments required extra efforts to obtain judges, timekeepers, and room reservations to carry off a successful tournament.

Big news from small fall staff

Only half as large as previous groups, the four member fall Patriot staff had to work doubly hard in order to produce the bi-weekly paper. Carolyn Rowe and Lorne Robinson co-edited the journal.

Due to a surge in Journalism I enrollment, the spring staff set a record for the largest group with sixteen members. In addition, two journalists served on both the fall and spring papers. Carolyn Rowe repeated as co-editor with Karyn Gibson as her fellow chief.

Book speaks for itself

The 1973-74 Heritage yearbook staff worked constantly from last May to the final deadline in February to create a yearbook that added a subjective voice to the traditionally objective "story" of the year. Throughout the school year the staff collected student quotes which they placed in the student body section. The topics varied from the energy crisis to Student Congress to the morning announcements. This new addition personalized the yearbook and broadened its coverage of the 1973-74 school year.

'Seasons' new feature section

A new feature section, Seasons, highlighted the Inscriptions literary magazine. The Alumni Corner and Etc. Section completed the showcase of student talent in creative writing, photography, and art work.

Selling eggs door-to-door in order to raise funds characterized the devotion of the Inscriptions staff. The unusually large group also sponsored a late night horror movie and a Mime Theater presentation. The money raised allowed the addition of twenty-four pages to the magazine.

Cast learns a new way to communicate

To make the play more realistic, some of the cast of The Miracle Worker learned the manual alphabet. They experienced the main problem of convincing the audience of their blindness. For this reason, they observed the blind and called in Sydney Stoeppleworth, a blind teacher at South, to help them with their techniques.

One hundred and twenty-five students tried out for the cast of fifteen and a dog. The cast practiced from the first of September to the end of October to perfect their roles.

Tech. crews build Keller house on stage

The construction crew for The Miracle Worker constructed practically a two-story house on stage. In addition to this fact, they also built five other major sets. The properties crew experienced difficulties in finding antique articles typical of the era of the play. Making an old-time water pump actually work on stage also challenged the crew.

For the first time ever, the individual actors and actresses applied their own make-up. The actors could express their roles better through the use of their own make-up.

'74 Thespians act, prepare

Looking forward to the International Theater Arts Conference, the Thespians prepared for that performance all year. It will take place during the summer in Muncie, Indiana. Entertained by demonstrations and speakers including Giles Fowler, the noted entertainment editor of the Kansas City Star, the club met twice each month in the Little Theater. Working on the cast or crew of two major drama productions earned potential Thespians the points needed for membership.

New drama group added

Making it possible for more students to get involved in dramatic arts, a Reader's Theater group took form early in the year. Sydney Stoeppleworth sponsored the ten-member group.

The 107th Street Players performed comedies and dramas that used a smaller cast than a main stage play. With the belief that pantomime is the universal art, the Mime Theater included two of South's foreign students. The Puppet Theater gave performances of their puppet extravaganza for adults and children alike.

Hard work and small cast makes 'Nanette' a success

Beginning with auditions in the first week of January, the cast of No, No, Nanette made preparations for the performances in late February. The 44 member cast was chosen by a total evaluation of the students' acting, singing, and dancing talents. After their selections, the members of the cast practice every night after school and on Saturdays.

The musical, which dealt with a young lady's quest to find adventure from her routine life, gave the audience simple entertainment in keeping with the spirit of the show. This production served as the musical's debut in the Kansas City area. Faculty advisors, who donated their time and talent to the cast, included Don Donaldson, Marie Lerner, Marcus Dowty, and Gerald Snider.

New faculty advisor helps 'Nanette' crews

Joining the group of faculty advisors to the spring musical No, No, Nanette, Patti Beard, an art teacher, helped to supervise the set construction and painting. This played an important part in the portrayal of the three act, three set musical. The colorful sets, designed by Connie Kruenegel included a lavish parlor for the first act, and practically an onstage house for the second.

The costumes, designed by Susan Handleman, highlighted the technical part of the production while the sound crew made special efforts to maintain the total quality of the singers' voices. The female theme of the play carried over into the crews with girls serving as the majority of crewheads.

Singers voice South quality

Heritage Singers 'concertized' and promoted quality choral music throughout the community by performances at clubs, contests and clinics.

A Cappella highlights included Masterworks and Spring Concerts. Preparation for these concerts included contests, concerts, tours and festivals during the year.

The Chanticleers host choir clinic for district

Singing out in the community and in concerts, Varsity Men, Chanticleers, and the Chanterelles worked hard to achieve their harmonious sound. The Chanterelles, formerly called the Triple Trio, underwent a name change to comply with the enlargement of the group from nine members to fifteen. They appeared in performances such as the Fall Concert and Vespers. Chanticleers activities included hosting a girls' choir clinic on February 5 for choirs in the district.

Varsity Men, the only select boys ensemble in the Kansas City area, participated in the November 13 North Area Choral Festival and other clinics in order to promote boys' singing on the junior high and high school levels.

Spring Patio Concert occupies Concert Choir

Concert Choir and the Sophomore Ensemble engaged in various singing performances throughout the year. Concert Choir I, a select group of sophomores, entertained South students with a Spring Patio concert. They also participated in the State Music Contest.

The Sophomore Ensemble, comprised of selected voices from the entire sophomore class, rehearsed and functioned as an extra-curricular activity. The group appeared at several major concerts including Vespers and also took part in the State Music Contest.

November tryouts place musicians in bands

As a result of auditions in November, Marching Band members were placed in either Concert Band or the Symphonic Band. Practices from 8:00 to 9:30 for the Symphonic Band and from 9:30 to 10:30 for the Concert Band readied the South musicians for their concerts scheduled throughout the year.

A visit from Colonel Gabriel, the conductor of the United States Air Force Band in Washington D.C., highlighted both bands' agendas. Colonel Gabriel spent the day with the bands rehearsing and conducting them.

SMS Orchestra plays score for the musical

Directed by Mr. Marcus Dowty, both the Jazz Band and the Orchestra worked to prepare for various musical programs. As a sixth hour class, the Orchestra practiced every day with the task of performing the musical score of No, No, Nanette.

During the spring, the Jazz Band, along with the other local bands, entertained students and adults with an evening of jazz. Music of the 20's-70's, dancing, and food created an enjoyable atmosphere.

Above: Karen Williams, a member of Jazz Ensemble, glances up from an after school practice, while Mr. Cochran perfects a piece for the state music contest.

Fall marching groups play for Chiefs crowd as well as SMS students

Raider music mingled with Chiefs cheers when the marching band played at a Kansas City football game on November 12. The annual District Marching Band Festival highlighted the Rompin' Stompin' Raider Band's musical year. This event became doubly exciting as each of the five Shawnee Mission groups invited a guest band. The group displayed its musical prowess at the Overland Park parade.

On Friday mornings, the rousing strains of the Pep Band attracted students to pep rallies in the front hall. Pep Band played while cheerleaders performed routines and led chants to generate spirit for the weekend game.

New sponsor spirits pep club members

Mr. Donaldson, Pep Club's new sponsor, spurred interest through his own spirit and wit along with the initiation of a spirit group, "The Green Screams." The group consisted of the girls with the highest points and loudest voices. The competitive atmosphere surrounding this group produces additional spirit in Pep Club.

Members supported all school sports and activities, while displaying their new gold vests. The addition of an executive committee chairmen meeting and pep assemblies bi-monthly kept members informed. To fund its many and varied activities, Pep Club offered suckers, T-shirts, license plates, stickers, scarves and buttons to all South students. These items encouraged a special spirit in non-members.

Seven South twirlers devote many free hours to half time practice.

The twirlers and drum majors added to the enthusiasm of games as well as participated in half time performances. The seven member twirling squad worked through the summer in order to prepare for a schedule of performances at home games, in the American Royal Parade, and at the November 12 Chiefs' game. Drum majors Randy Boyle and Tom Stewart exhibited their skill in the Shawnee Mission Marching Festival on October 20.

Touchdowns at football games sent mascot Mary Jane Harmless and her horse galloping in front of the stands. Their appearance at the Homecoming game marked an end to the horse's illness which had prevented their appearance in the two previous games.

Raiderettes and 'Psycho' help out Cancer Fund

The Raiderettes raised money for such charities as the Cancer Fund by selling cinnamon suckers and stationery and by sponsoring a late-night showing of 'Psycho'. During home football games the six girls announced visually the arrival of South's marching groups as they carried the school banner. The sextet opened home basketball games with a precision rifle drill.

South's five yell leaders provided a male accent to the Varsity Cheerleading squad. Clad in green shirts and white overalls, they provided vocal pep as well as a backdrop for the cheerleaders' stunts during the Varsity Football games. The Pep Club selected the squad in an election similar to those used in choosing girl cheerleaders.

Former Pacesetter becomes the leader of South Flag Team

Sandy Jones, a former South student, now a sophomore English teacher, became the new sponsor of the Flag Team. During her years at South, she captained the Drill Team. This experience helped her to lead the Flag Team into its own as an individual organization, not just another marching group.

The unit performed at many functions including a Chiefs game, the Overland Park parade, and at Band Festival sponsored by the school. Since the team takes sophomore girls, they also went to the junior highs to give assemblies. In April, the members held clinics in preparation for the final tryouts in May. The candidates were evaluated on poise, marching ability, flag maneuvers and their smiles.

SM South Pacesetters practice many hours before and after school

Practices before school at 7:00 everyday and after school readied South's drill team, the Pacesetters for their performances. The girls, selected last spring, worked through the summer in preparation for appearances in the Overland Park Parade, the November 12th Chiefs' game, the Shawnee Mission Marching Festival as well as home football and basketball games. One of the major projects of the Pacesetters involved an elaborate program presented before parents and students called the Drill Team Extravaganza.

Over the summer second year team members attended a clinic held in Iowa. Judged on various marching skills the girls returned from the competition with one 1st and two 2nd place trophies.

JV and Soph. cheerleaders always busy

Junior Varsity cheerleaders prompted spirit from spectators at JV sports events, in the stands at Varsity football games and at pep rallies. Dinners with other teams also fit into their busy schedule. The Sophomore cheerleaders kept occupied, when not at games or meets, by washing cars and having garage and bake sales in order to raise money to buy new uniforms.

South boasts nat'l. champs

South's Varsity Cheerleaders became national champions when they earned first place honors in a competition sponsored by Coca-Cola. Factors in the judging included cheerleading style, enthusiasm, and the girls' personal qualifications.

The eight girls displayed their championship style at all varsity sports contests. The squad pepped up Friday mornings with routines in the lobbies and halls. In their spare time, they sold South Spirit 73 buttons, painted curbs and decorated locker rooms.

Raiders make history in Oklahoma City game

As the 73-74 Raider season approached, the many grueling hours of summer practice came to a close and the Shawnee Mission South Football team eagerly awaited the first game of the season. Their efforts were rewarded with an astounding 38-6 victory over Oklahoma City's Classen High. Despite torrential rainfall Raider spirits remained undampened as South made league history by becoming the first area school to play an Oklahoma team.

The Mean Green then clashed with Springfield Parkview earning a runaway victory of 48-7. Craig Huntley dominated the game by scoring three of six touchdowns and totaling 128 yards on eight carries.

SM North, South's traditional rival fell victim to Raider power as they experienced a crushing defeat of 26-6. Once again, the defensive line led by Tom Price restrained the opposing Indians as South pushed their record to 3-0.

SMS defeats Topeka in homecoming contest

The Mean Green continued undefeated as they shut out Topeka West 40-0. Steve Little highlighted the game with his completion of six of nine passes, kicking six kickoffs into the endzone and making four extra points. Keith Clay's 73 yard punt return made for the only fourth quarter score.

The Raider football squad moved their record to 6-0 by downing Topeka Trojans 28-0 in the Homecoming game. While Raider defense allowed only 15 yards, South accumulated 279. After Dave Long's recovery of a Trojan fumble, Craig Huntley went on to score one of three touchdowns he made that night.

Stormy weather appeared to become a tradition for South games as the Mean Green scored a 24-0 victory over SM West on another rain-soaked field. Tom Price and Mark Burkhart led an explosive defense as Skip Johnson scored all three touchdowns of the game.

With Steve Little injured early in the game, quarterback Mike Merrifield led the number one rated team in the city and state to a shutout 23-0 victory over SM Northwest. Wayne Brackett contributed two points for a safety and Les Mardicks added to the score by kicking three out of three extra points.

South shows strength in league competition

A fifth consecutive shutout against the Lawrence Lions assured South of the Sunflower League Championship for the third straight year. Steve Little scored two touchdowns with two nine yard quarterback sweeps. After receiving the kickoff, Chip Manson ran the ball back 75 yards for the final Raider score.

The Mean Green defeated the East Lancers 24-7 in their last regular season game. Tom Price headed the defensive line with eight unassisted tackles, allowing the opponents only 72 yards rushing and forcing a fumble at the South 10 yard line. Craig Huntley made the first touchdown, followed by Mike Merrifield's 22 yard run after a pass interception.

Regionals proved to be no competition for South as the Raiders breezed by Wichita North 24-7. This victory led to a confrontation between South and West for the state championship. With outstanding performances by players Jim Lob, Floyd Dorsey, and Kep Plotkin on defense, and John Faerber, Skip Johnson, Steve Little, and Mike Merrifield on offense, the Raiders closed their season with a State Championship and an amazing 11-0 record.

JV football team earns 5-3 despite injuries

The Raider Junior Varsity Football Team completed their season with a record of five wins and three losses. Although riddled with injuries during most of the season, the Raiders showed spirit and determination during every game.

Keith Clay and Randy Heath shared the quarterbacking duties throughout the season. Paul Goehausen, a reserve running back, replaced Steve Anderson who was injured early in the season. These starring players and the Raider defensive unit proved to be the strong points of the team. The game with the Topeka Trojans ranked as the highlight of the season with a 40-8 victory. Mark Maggio did an outstanding job of blocking in the game.

Sophomores exhibit Mean Green spirit

The Sophomore White Football Team wrapped up the season with a 6-1 record, being defeated only by their friendly enemy, Sophomore Green Team. The 35-6 victory over SM Northwest proved to be a great accomplishment as they were the toughest opponent the white team confronted all year. Quarterback Jeff Kallmeyer headed the winning offense and Terry Brown was the leading rusher, with Mike Schooley heading the defensive unit.

Plagued with many injuries, the Sophomore Green Team closed out their season with a 6-3 record. Led by their quarterback, Tony Scardino, the team reaped the benefits of their strong running attack by crushing Sumner 48-0 in the first game of the season. KC Southeast proved to be no competition for the Jolly Green Giants as they were defeated 53-6. Top scorers on this year's team included John Dillon, Tom Rystrom, Dave Maule, and Corey Garner.

Varsity Cross Country captures State title

For the second consecutive year, the Varsity Cross Country team captured the State title, raising their record to four championships in six years. Jim Nicolay clinched the individual state championship with a time of 9:36, capping a personal record of seven victories in nine races. Six senior and two junior lettermen returned to form the backbone of the team.

The South team began the season by defeating Shawnee Mission North and Shawnee Mission East soundly. Later memorable victories included those over Wichita West and Wichita South, the team's arch-rivals. Coached by Verlyn Schmidt, the team concluded the season with a perfect record.

B and C teams compile sixth perfect record

The SM South C Cross Country teams proved to be on top again as they went undefeated throughout their entire season. The B team accumulated two perfect scores with excellent performances put in by Ray Kenny, Dave Stewart, and Scott Terry. The SM East Invitational which is the equivalent of a State meet was a great success as the Harriers took first through fifth places. The Raider C team led by Robby Harber and Dave Stewart was just as successful with clear victories in all of their meets.

Girls tennis team hits near perfect record

Under the new tennis coach, John Davidson, South's Varsity and Junior Varsity Girls' Tennis teams finished their season with a near perfect record of twelve wins, one tie, and one loss. Dominating the league with experience and enthusiasm, the tennis team had seven returning members of last year's squad including State doubles champion Bobbie O'Brien.

The Varsity tennis recorded no losses with wins over Ward, Center, SM North, and arch-rival SM East. Bobbie O'Brien, Karen Hense, Diane Davidson, Kim Saunders, and Ann Clark dominated the singles circuit while the sister team of Sheryl and Jan Pugh frequented the courts in doubles.

Volleyball team takes second at Regionals

Directed by Cindy Smith the twenty-four member volleyball team earned a 6-3 record and second place in 5A classification as a result of team efforts during the 73-74 season. Under the leadership of Captain Dyan Conway, the team defeated Bishop Miege and SM Northwest to capture their fine rating at Regionals. With eight returning team members and strong senior leadership, this year's team had one of the best records in South's volleyball history.

Rebounding talent seen in '74 season

Shawnee Mission South team entered the season with much of last year's talent returning. Coming off last season's record of 9-12, the Raiders showed much improvement in defensive skills.

South defeated Leavenworth in the season's opener, 79-78, in double overtime. Bob Bennison made the tieing lay-up in the last three seconds to send the Raiders in overtime. Center Floyd Dorsey made two freethrows for the winning point. Mark Gunnison led the scoring with 16 points.

The Raiders triumphed again by beating Northwest 78-51. Steve Willman was high point man with 19 points. It was a strong offensive game with four Raiders scoring in double figures.

Varsity cagers lead league competition

The Varsity Basketball team continued to dominate the Sunflower League after beating SM East, SM West and SM North in post-vacation games. Without practice over the holidays, the Raiders squeaked by SM East 43-42 in overtime at East. Mike Ludlow was fouled with less than a second left and made a free throw. The next night at SM West, the Raiders won 56-47 in a hard fought game. SM North then travelled to the Raiders' court to lose in a 56-47 solid victory for South. Mark Gunnison and John Faerber each contributed 16 points to that game, aided by Floyd Dorsey's strong rebounding skills.

The Mean Green went into the second half of the season with an undefeated record and ready to face SM East. A large crowd of Raider fans saw South defeat East by a large margin. At the Center Invitational Tournament, South placed first by beating Southeast, Ruskin, and William Chrisman. The Raiders defeated Chrisman 68-60 in the final game. In the last game of the season, the Mean Green stumped their rivals, SM West, 56-36.

JV squad welcomes new players, talents

South's JV Basketball team entered the season with new talent supplied by Keith Clay and Clint Nelson. The JV Squad consisted primarily of juniors who had hopes of becoming members of the Varsity team.

The season opener was a triumph over Leavenworth. Playing outstanding offensive basketball, the Raiders hit over 50% of their shots and had a winning score of 73-46.

Led by Coach Ron Millard the team developed their scoring and rebounding skills. With Clint Nelson as the leading rebounder, and a good front line, the Raiders showed strength in the powerful Sunflower League.

Green Basketball Team tops previous record

The Sophomore Green Team this year was stronger than in recent years. With Dave Ring, forward, shooting with accuracy and rebounding aggressively,the Raiders started off the season strong. Directing the Raider attack was guard John Dillon. The depth at all positions seemed to be a major factor in Raider success.

The Sophomore Gold Team had trouble warming up at the start, but showed Raider enthusiasm and determination in every game. Lack of experience along with an injury to starting center Dave Walker hampered the team's play. The Raiders did have a well-balanced attack but had problems putting it together.

Individual strengths displayed by swimmers

The South Swim team was individually stronger during the 1973-74 season. Bob McNitt, junior, helped the team by breaking school records in all events. Several returning state champions and diver Pat Brettel formed a well-balanced team. Sophomore Mike Leydon developed into a strong sprinter and Ron Barnes was the top man in the freestyle. The team was strengthened by returning lettermen Bill Chop, Steve Lawson, and Greg Leichliter. Coaches Calwell and Marine guided the Raiders for another successful season and down the long road to the State meet in Lawrence.

Gymnastic teams leap to new records

The Raiders Boys' and Girls' gymnastics teams, with the support of coaches John Brouillette and Lois Dinelt, formed impressive records. Many returning team members helped create well-balanced squads. The boys' top record holders were Hal Kruz, Terry Oliver, and Trippy Haenisch although Haenisch, Buck Farrar, and Scott Parker suffered injuries during the season. Lisa and Jody Manzon strengthened girls' team scores with beam, vaulting, and uneven bar stunts. Sandy Balot showed skill in floor exercise and on the balance beam.

Wrestlers triumph despite inexperience

Despite overall inexperience and no Christmas vacation practices, South's wrestling team concluded the season with a strong record. The Raider grapplers, sparked by a first place finish in the 167 pound class by Mark Burkhart, clinched a tie for third place in the Sunflower League Championship.

Three returning lettermen, Kory Rowberry, Mike Howell, and Jeff Krusen, paced the predominantly sophomore and junior team through five tournaments and seven dual meets. Tom Trenda, a junior competing in the 112 pound class, posted the best record with a 6-0 mark going into the Sunflower Championship. The dual meets against Northwest and Olathe stood out as the most memorable competitions of the eleven week season.

'73 champions try for title

The Shawnee Mission South Track squad returned with hopes of recapturing the Sunflower and State titles. A string distance team, led by State champion Jim Nicolay, set out to break more school records. The field team, with John Faerber in the long jump and Floyd Dorsey at shot put, went out for another record-breaking season.

Girls' swimming draws interest

Coach Sharon Wiber led the Girls' swim team into another aggressive season. More than fifty girls went out for the team in early February. Thirteen girls from this field competed as varsity swimmers. Strong in sprints and medleys and lacking somewhat in diving and the distance events, the team set out to capture another undefeated season.

Girls' Softball makes big hit in first year

The fall of 1973 marked the debut of girl's softball as an inter-school sport in the Shawnee Mission district. About thirty girls tried out for the fifteen member team, coached by Wilbur Holland and paced by pitcher Donna Judgkins.

Boys' baseball, also in its first year, attracted players from the 3&2 league to its roster.

Boys' tennis works for State

The Shawnee Mission South Boys' tennis team started the season with hopes of traveling to the Sunflower and State meets. Andy Scott, the team's top-seeded player, and returning lettermen John Cope and Jeff Rhoads provided the experience necessary for a well-balanced team. Under the guidance of Coaches Jim Davidson and Duane Gabrielson, the team began practicing in February for the first game of the season in March.

HIGHLIGHTS

The real highlight of the year is the last day.

Highlights of the year? No comment!

At least they keep some of us off the streets.

Summer days keep South students busy

For some students, all school related activities did not end with the arrival of summer. South students participated in Girls' and Boys' State at Kansas University in Lawrence. The program, sponsored by the American Legion, provide those students chosen by Mr. Johnson, with a chance to learn about Kansas government. A governor's ball highlighted their week stay in the dormitories. Another group of selected students worked with the Board of County Commissioners. These students conducted studies on various county departments and made suggestions concerning the allocations of revenue-sharing funds.

In June, summer school began at South, offering courses to students in air-conditioned comfort.

South scholars honored by NMS and NHS

The pains of getting up at 7:30 on a Saturday morning to take the PSAT/NMSQT paid off for thirty South seniors. Fifteen gained the honor of being named semi-finalists in the National Merit Scholarship competition. The rest earned Letters of Commendation.

Teachers got a chance to choose South's most outstanding students in the spring of 1973. They selected the new members of the National Honor Society.

International Club . . . new name, same purpose

Beginning the year with a new name and new faces, the International Club, (formerly the AFS Club) strove to make the foreign exchange students feel at home in the United States. The members of the club changed the name because of the substantial number of ICYE students at South. The club wanted to help not only AFS students, but all exchange students. The club met once a week at which either foreign students or an American returnee from another country, gave a presentation about that country.

Under the direction of Laura Shockey, all of the exchange students participated in the club. The club sponsored a carnival, and received the proceeds from the student-faculty basketball game.

Assemblies Show South's school spirit

Many varied assemblies became a part of certain school days this year. They included two rock music concerts, a Christmas Vespers concert, cuttings from South's fall play, The Miracle Worker, and loud pep assemblies.

The First Gear concert entertained students by playing some "Chicago" songs as well as some of their own. The group helped the Flag Team to raise money for new uniforms.

The pep assemblies include humorous skits by different groups. Members of the administration also led invigorating cheers.

'If I Loved You' and Carousel theme inspire homecoming events

As the band played 'If I Loved You', the Homecoming candidates arrived in a horse-drawn carriage in tune with the 'Carousel' theme. The lavender and yellow color scheme decorated the merry-go-round float. Renting carousel horses for the float proved economical and created a more professional looking float.

After the tearful crowning of Wendy Manzon as the 1973 Homecoming Queen, couples arrived at the semi-formal dance for two hours of music and dancing by Pandora, an all girl band. The introduction of the Homecoming finalists and attendants: Tina Myers as first attendant and Gayle McFerrin as second attendant captured the attention of attending couples.

Six seniors receive Heritage Royalty honors

The junior members of the yearbook staff nominated the candidates for Heritage Royalty on the basis of all received senior summaries during January. From the senior class, ten boys and ten girls are chosen for outstanding involvement in three or more areas of activities. These areas included pep club, sports, drama, music, scholarship, student government, NJROTC, and other activities. From these twenty seniors, the entire student body voted for the boy and girl they felt the most deserving of this honor on the basis of their activities. The results announced in a senior assembly named Mark Gunnison and Denise Moore as Heritage Royalty King and Queen. Roger Born and Mary Lu Spencer, along with Trippy Haenisch and Dyan Conway became first and second attendants.

Romeo and Juliet theme creates Valentine mood

The theme of Romeo and Juliet stirred the Valentine spirits of students attending the basketball game and couples attending the Sweetheart Dance. During the half time of the victorious basketball game against West, the crowning of the Sweetheart queen and her attendants took place amid the balcony scene from Romeo and Juliet, accompanied by the love theme of the movie. The candidates, dressed in pink, eagerly awaited the announcements of the finalists. As the excitement rose, Lynne Cleary was named 2nd Attendant, Jody Manzon as 1st Attendant and Kathy Mahoney as the 1974 Sweetheart Queen. Those attending the dance afterward enjoyed the sounds of Diamond Jim.

ADMINISTRATION

Educational targets occupy Board interest

Elimination of classroom and teacher shortages allowed educational targets to occupy the minds of Board members. In the continued effort to equalize education, the district zeroed in on reading programs this year. The Board emphasized the general movement from the college prep program to a comprehensive education for all students, especially in the area of career education and education for the handicapped.

New attendance policies helped bring the student to the classroom. School officials and community authorities worked together in an effort to totally eliminate drugs and tobacco from the campuses. Keith Hubbard and Gene Winton contributed as newly-elected members of the Board.

NCA involves students with administration

About 125 students got the opportunity to relate their opinions of South to professional educators when a North Central Association team visited the school. The NCA members evaluated South through their own observations of activities and classes and the students' opinions. This study represented South's first NCA evaluation. After the completion of the October study, the faculty and administration enacted suggested improvements.

Jo Carroll, a new member of South's corps of administrators, administered the new district attendance policy. Richard Barrett, a native Kansan, the new Associate Principal, took charge of teacher evaluations and the development of new courses for the 1974-1975 school year.

Library welcomes new science resource center

The library exhibited a new workroom-turned-science resource center this year. The converted space gave the science department a separate room, for its various reference materials. The library added three thousand more books, bringing the total number of books to 24,000. Thirty-one assistants, stationed in the library at different times, helped the students with their individual needs.

The office secretaries carried on the tradition of wearing green and gold outfits on Fridays to show the old school spirit. Judy Hastings acted as Bookkeeper. June Scorza manned the phones, while Dorothy Casaert served as registrar. Jan Schulte, Joan Lancaster, and Katie Barrington performed the secretarial duties for the administrators.

Counseling with a focus on the student

The academic and vocational needs of nearly 2500 students kept South's five counselors very busy. For college-bound students they not only handled applications. Zela Holt coordinated admissions testing programs. Ann Gresham served as South's expert on scholarships. All counselors helped to maintain a library of current college catalogues.

The five counselors also helped those students who wanted to attend technical schools. Phil Larson aided students who desired jobs during the school year.

Hungry students feast on nourishing lunches

Cafeteria workers found this year's schedule as busy as ever. Each day they prepared well-balanced hot lunches for approximately 1000 students in the three period lunch span as well as served food during much of the day. Students enrolled in study halls in the cafeteria could purchase such things as cookies, potato chips, and candy bars from vending machines.

A staff of 17 custodians handled the job of keeping the school clean. Through their constant efforts, the building maintained its spotless appearance. Custodians also looked after the school grounds, picking up papers which had somehow missed trash containers.

Cinematography class stimulates students

The Art department added a new class, Cinematography, which drew a record number of the students to the Art department. Taught by David Lawrence, the class offered students the opportunity of working with a new medium. Placing emphasis on photography and movie-making, the classes worked on major projects with the use of new cameras and developing materials.

The Art department put on presentations and shows all year long, with a culminating art fair in May. They also helped with school publicity by making posters for all of the major drama productions at South.

Oklahoman one of three new teachers

Brian Alger, who came from Oklahoma to teach business courses at South became one of three new business teachers. He taught Economics and began the Personal Finance course. Loralie Wilson, introduced the Offices Procedures program. Lois Supple became the third addition to the typing teacher corps.

Two awards nights held in May honored both classroom students and those involved in work-study programs.

Vocabulary stressed as the key to reading

The reading classes experimented with an open classroom concept this year. With many students expressing dissatisfaction with the old system, it became apparent that the teaching techniques needed a complete change. Putting emphasis on vocabulary as the key to better reading, the students sped up their reading and improved their comprehension.

The drama department added a new class to its list of varied courses. Music Repertory Theater combined the talents of Gerald Snider and Don Donaldson. It served as a guide in helping the students to strengthen their acting and singing abilities. The course, open to Juniors and Seniors, gave an interesting outlook toward the world of professional performing.

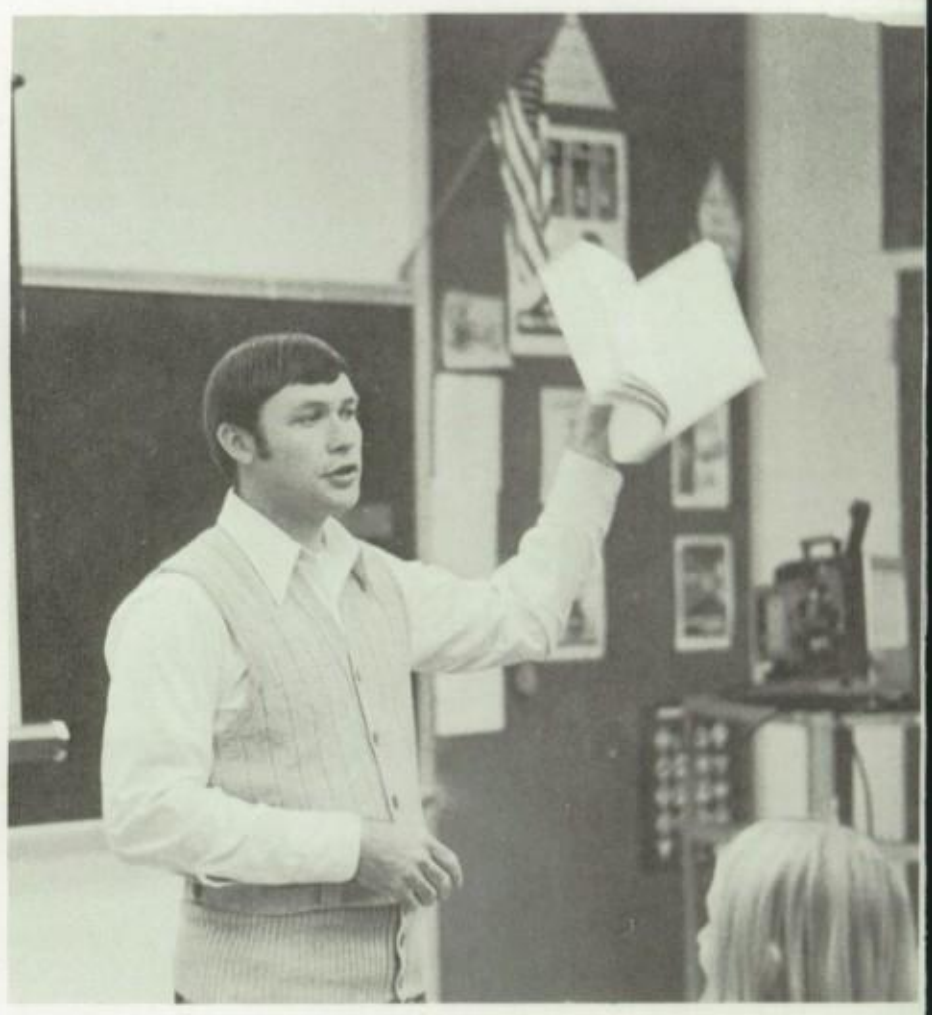
Much hard work yields knowledgeable drivers



Driver's Education teachers experienced another busy year, turning out approximately 600 students as capable, licensed drivers. The students and teachers accomplished this task through diligent work in classroom studies, movies, simulators, and actual driving practice. This last method proved to be the most exciting as well as practical. At various points in the year, students found themselves in ditches, wrong lanes, or headed for medians. In order to keep track of their on the road successes and failures, students kept driving records which rated different skills on a 1 to 5 basis. Instructors graded students on maneuvers such as parallel parking, backing, and interstate driving. While many students began the course with the poorest rating, a 5, equally as many students progressed in driving ability and earned a 1 by semester's end.

J. L. Seagull sends thoughts soaring

A study of Jonathan Livingston Seagull sent thoughts soaring in the Sophomore Honors English classes. New books including novels, short stories and poetry books highlighted the year in English II. A non-fiction book, English Everywhere, directed the students toward a study of language.

Improvements enhanced the elective program in its second year. Courses consisted of science fiction, prejudice, war and the individual, search for self, and crime and the criminal. Karen Benson's Coping with Mass Media elective enabled the students to experiment with filmmaking, critiquing, viewing, and video tapes.

Juniors study varied classics

Stressing reading and composition, Junior English classes entered the year with much material to cover. Studying classics, including Babbitt, Huck Finn, Grapes of Wrath and Death of a Salesman, they experienced a well-rounded year of literature based on American authors.

The Junior Honors classes, under the direction of Rowena Turk, gave semester projects on famous American authors. They also emphasized class discussions.

Freud and Tristram mix in A.P. English classes

Using the theories of Freud and Jung among others, helped Advanced Placement students to unravel the psychological secrets of works such as Tristram Shandy and Gulliver's Travels. Frequent and spirited discussions led by Dorothy Holland enlivened the intellectual atmosphere of Room 171.

Semantics received the attention of regular English IV classes as students explored the many effects of language upon men. Thought and Statement texts introduced fundamental concepts. The study continued as classes delved into the linguistic marvels of the Man series, Hamlet, and other works. Students sharpened their language skills through group discussions and self-scheduled essays. Teachers charted student progress through diagnostic testing.

Native dishes tempt appetites and intellects

Elementary foreign language students, years I, II, and III, enhanced their conventional grammar studies with cultural appreciation. Sampling dishes such as guacamole and Vichyssoise gave students a chance to learn while having fun.

June Farson's French pupils shared their holiday spirit by caroling at Metcalf South Shopping Center. German students participated in an authentic Oktoberfest held by district German teachers. Third year Spanish students discussed current events and foreign affairs in Friday forums. They permitted only a minimal amount of English to enter into the conversation.

Little use of English forces foreign tongue

Advanced language students, years IV and V, found themselves in classes conducted almost entirely without the use of English. Classes continued some grammar studies along with reading foreign novels and history texts.

French Club, made up of French V students, came into existence this year. These students supervised by Sherril Hixon, viewed French films at the Festival Theater. El Club Amistad participants kept busy with AFS-involved programs. A booth at the AFS Carnival occupied the time of Latin pupils

Students rediscover childhood secrets

The Home Ec Department offered more than twenty students the opportunity to examine the nature of childhood through a new course, Exploring Childhood. These students worked directly with young children in day care centers and nursery schools. While the young pupils learned from their high school teachers, the South students redeveloped forgotten skills such as coloring and pretending. Only twenty schools nationwide initiated the course, which also served as a pilot study for new teaching materials.

Increased enrollment in Home Ec offerings indicated greater student desire to acquire domestic skills. Additional Home Decoration and Bachelor Survival classes formed to accommodate interested students.

Auto Tech. classes use new workspace

The Auto Tech. classes expanded into the previously unoccupied area beneath the cafeteria. To make the facilities look like a true automobile repair shop, workmen remodeled it early in the year. A vocational body shop class met after school and at night to prepare students for a future in mechanics.

Art Clements' classes continued to stress elementary drawing and drafting. The wood classes strived to complete major projects by using jigsaws and lathes. Home Mechanics, a new course aimed chiefly at girls, taught them how to do minor repair jobs in the home.

Students count in Math Dept.

Following traditional teaching techniques, the Math teachers entered the year by expanding student-teacher relationships. The teachers helped the students on an individual basis rather than on a classroom basis.

Probability and Statistics taught by Ron Millard, drew a record enrollment. The students in the semester class used sample data in their work on problems involving higher math and logic.

South major computer user

South Computer Science classes used the district computer more frequently than all other Shawnee Mission students combined. Interest in these programs climbed as pupils sought important technical skills for the future.

An unusually large enrollment made two Calculus classes necessary for the first time in South's history. Students stretched their math skills to the limit as they studied functions and vector equations in an effort to gain valuable college credit.

Exciting music courses trigger pupils' interest

Students enrolled in classes in the music area at South found that courses maintained the traditionally high standard of performance as in past years. Field trips to places such as an organ factory and an electric music studio gave students a look at other aspects of music.

Based on relating the music of a society to its people, a new course, Music Appreciation, had a successful year. Judging from enrollment in this course and the new string ensemble, students enjoyed these additions to the music curriculum.

Electives add variety to physical education

The introduction of an elective program featuring golf, basketball, slimnastics (for health nuts), tap and jazz, and square and folk dancing added a special excitement to the girls' gym classes. Modified World War I and II guerilla exercises prepared the girls for their daily activities. Periodic fitness tests enticed girls to improve their flexibility, balance, and power. Advanced gym saw new emphasis placed on physical education as a career.

A boys' Physical Fitness Club evolved to aid those boys interested in higher levels of fitness. Encouraging this same interest in the regular classes the teachers employed talks and competitive tests to spur them on. While sporting new uniforms, senior leaders assisted the teachers.

New resources spark interest

A resource center and seminar program added a new dimension to biology. The resource center provided a science section in the library for individual research. A science teacher assisted the students in their tasks.

SMESL experiments with the pond, animal, and plant characteristics continued to highlight biology. Special studies including John Brouillette's study of man: his religion, life, and myths, and Mike Calwell's study of bees aroused student interest.

Students test 'biologizing'

Biology II students tested two types of study: book structured biology and independent 'biologizing'. Science and Survival looked into the future of the world and science. Scavenger hunts and fishing entertained SMESL explorers guided by Field Tech students.

A flexible course structure allowed students to study physics through interest areas. Labs, unknowns, calculations and exotic smells challenged chemistry students each day.

Amer. History classes utilize slides, films

In an attempt to eliminate the belief that history simply consists of names, dates and places, teachers of American History employed movies, slides, presentations and individual research projects as teaching methods.

At the end of last year, students in team-teaching filled out questionnaires on the class. A study of students' responses to the 255 questions enabled Larry Gould and John Forbes to improve the class with useful modifications.

South students scrutinize Am. nat'l. politics

In the year of the Watergate investigation, South's American Government students did some examining of their own. These students researched the political process of a democracy and focused on the citizen's role. Teaching methods included special projects, research papers, and simulated statistical studies.

Don Black led the Honors class, which enrolled twice as many students as in previous years. Impromptu debates frequently peppered class discussions.

Search for self in Psychology

To better understand their own normal or abnormal behavior, Psychology students investigated learning, motivation, and emotion, and social psychology. Dennis Butler's Anthropology classes mixed studies of the 'ologies' such as paleontology, the study of early man, with field studies of labor strikes and learning abilities. Sociology concentrated on minorities and families. World History discussed world cultures in terms of western culture.

Too many students—
but don't count me out—
I want to stay here.
Great mixture of free spirits!
Jocks, freaks, straights—
they're all here.

A 180 day sandwich between my sophomore and senior years.

Bailey

THE AMERICAN PAGEANT

Fourth Edition

Two down, one to go.

Teri Aamold | Mike Aaron | Keith Abrams | Lisa Abrams | Tanya Ackerman | Laura Acuff | Debbie Adair

I spent my sophomore year working my way into the establishment. I spent my junior year rebelling against the establishment.

Mike Adams | Tim Akers | Brent Akright | Jean Allen | Rick Allen | Caroll Allie | Ron Altman

Mark Ariagno | J. Cameron Arnold | Dean Athan | John Athon | Bruce Auld | Kevin Auld | Debbie Austin

They said your junior year is the hardest. They were right.

Vicki Ayers | Alan Babb | John Baeke | Barbara Baellow | Kent Baker | Mark Baker | Mark Baker

I gained my freedom in my junior year. In other words, I got my driver's license and a car!

Vicky Baker | Joy Balderson | William Ball | Steve Ballard | Sandie Balot | Zeve Barash | Sandy Barclay

If I endure this year, the school will be mine next year!

Rain dampens Band debut

Colorful, synchronized but often ignored.

Greg Barnes | Rick Barr | Brad Barrett | Barb Barrick | Lori Baru | Cheryl Batton | Lester Bauer

We have the best marching band ever created. We know this because of the comments and fantastic reactions we receive when we perform here and abroad!

Jackie Baumgart | Sandra Beal | Celeste Bednar | Daryl Beer | Nancy Bellamy | Julie Bennett | Lisa Bercher

Kathy Berner | Karen Bernstein | Toni Bessey | Judy Bettison | Bob Bevan | Rebecca Bickell | Christine Bivona

The band was the best of all the organizations. The band is uncomparable to any other band. Of course, I'm not prejudiced since I'm in the band.

Gordon Black | Debbie Blaylock | Linda Bogenschutz | Cindy Bonebright | Leo Bontrager | Darcy Booth | Mary Boppart

I thought the half time activities were fantastic! All the performing groups were superb in their presentation.

Chris Caldwell | Connie Campbell | Frank Carollo | Jerry Carpenter | Kim Carpenter | Jeff Carr | Rob Chambers

Linda Chamblin | Mark Chaplick

Perfection! Much dedication, time and work is obviously necessary for these performances.

Ellen Chapline | David Chapman

If it wasn't for the Rompin' Stompin' Raider Band the football games would have been dull.

Bob Charlesworth | Bruce Chase

Gary Chase | Kacy Childs

The half time shows are so entertaining they should be continued, even at some basketball games.

It was real greasy.

This was the tree and it seemed to me standing there to resemble those men, the giants of your childhood, whom you encounter years later and find that they are not merely smaller in relation to your growth, but that they are absolutely shrunken by age. In this double demotion the old giants have become pigmies while you were looking the other way. The tree was not only stripped by the cold season, it seemed weary from age, enfeebled dry. I was thankful, very thankful that I had seen it. So the more things remain the same, the more they change after all — plus c'est la meme chose, plus ca change. Nothing endures, not a tree, not love, not even a death by violence. All of them, all except Phineas, constructed at infinite cost to themselves these Maginot lines against this enemy they thought they saw across the frontier, this enemy who never attacked that way — if he ever attacked at all; if he was indeed the enemy.

We need to feel more to understand others. We need to love more to be loved back, We need to cry more to cleanse ourselves. We need to laugh more to enjoy ourselves, We need to see more other than our own little fantasies. We need to hear more and listen to the needs of others. We need to give more and take less. We need to share more and own less. We need to look more and realise that we are not so different from one another. We need to create a world where everyone can peacefully live the life they choose.

Well, for the straight poop, let's go where I go every morning, barely a garbonzo's throw from the Tomb of the Unregistered Voter in Commander Python's Phi Beta Geek National Refuge. High school has been a time of expansion and discovery. It has been a stepping stone between the innocence and freedom of youth and the reality of adulthood. Many have already become adults and others remain youths. But, we must remember physical age is the only limit that retains youth for the youth. Our minds can expand into adulthood or remain youthful. We must take with us, not alphabetically or numerically, a list of our accomplishments and our failures, our hopes and ambitions gained, and those things we have not yet achieved. The only truth remains in ourselves; our accomplishments and our failures, in the deepest of our consciousness we know. And only we know.

Why not take some of the land
used for shopping centers and make a few more parks?
KC has some of the nicest shopping centers in the world
if you could only get to them.
Even if you don't want to buy anything shopping centers
are good places to congregate.

He was born in an obscure village. The child of a peasant woman. He grew up in still another village. Where he worked in a carpenter shop until he was thirty. Then for three years he was an itinerant preacher. He never wrote a book. He never held an office. He never had a family or owned a house. He didn't go to college. He never visited a big city. He never traveled two hundred miles from the place where he was born. He did none of the things one usually associates with greatness. He had no credentials but himself. He was only thirty-three when the tide of public opinion turned against him. His friends ran away. He was turned over to his enemies and went through the mockery of a trial. He was nailed to a cross between tw thieves. While he was dying, his executioners gambled f his clothing. The only property he had on earth. When h was dead, he was laid in a borrowed grave through th pity of a friend. Nineteen centuries have come and gon and today he is the central figure of the human race an the leader of mankind's progress. All the armies that ev marched, all the navies that ever sailed, all th parliaments that ever sat, all the kings that ever reigne put together, have not affected the life of man on this ear as much as that one solitary life.

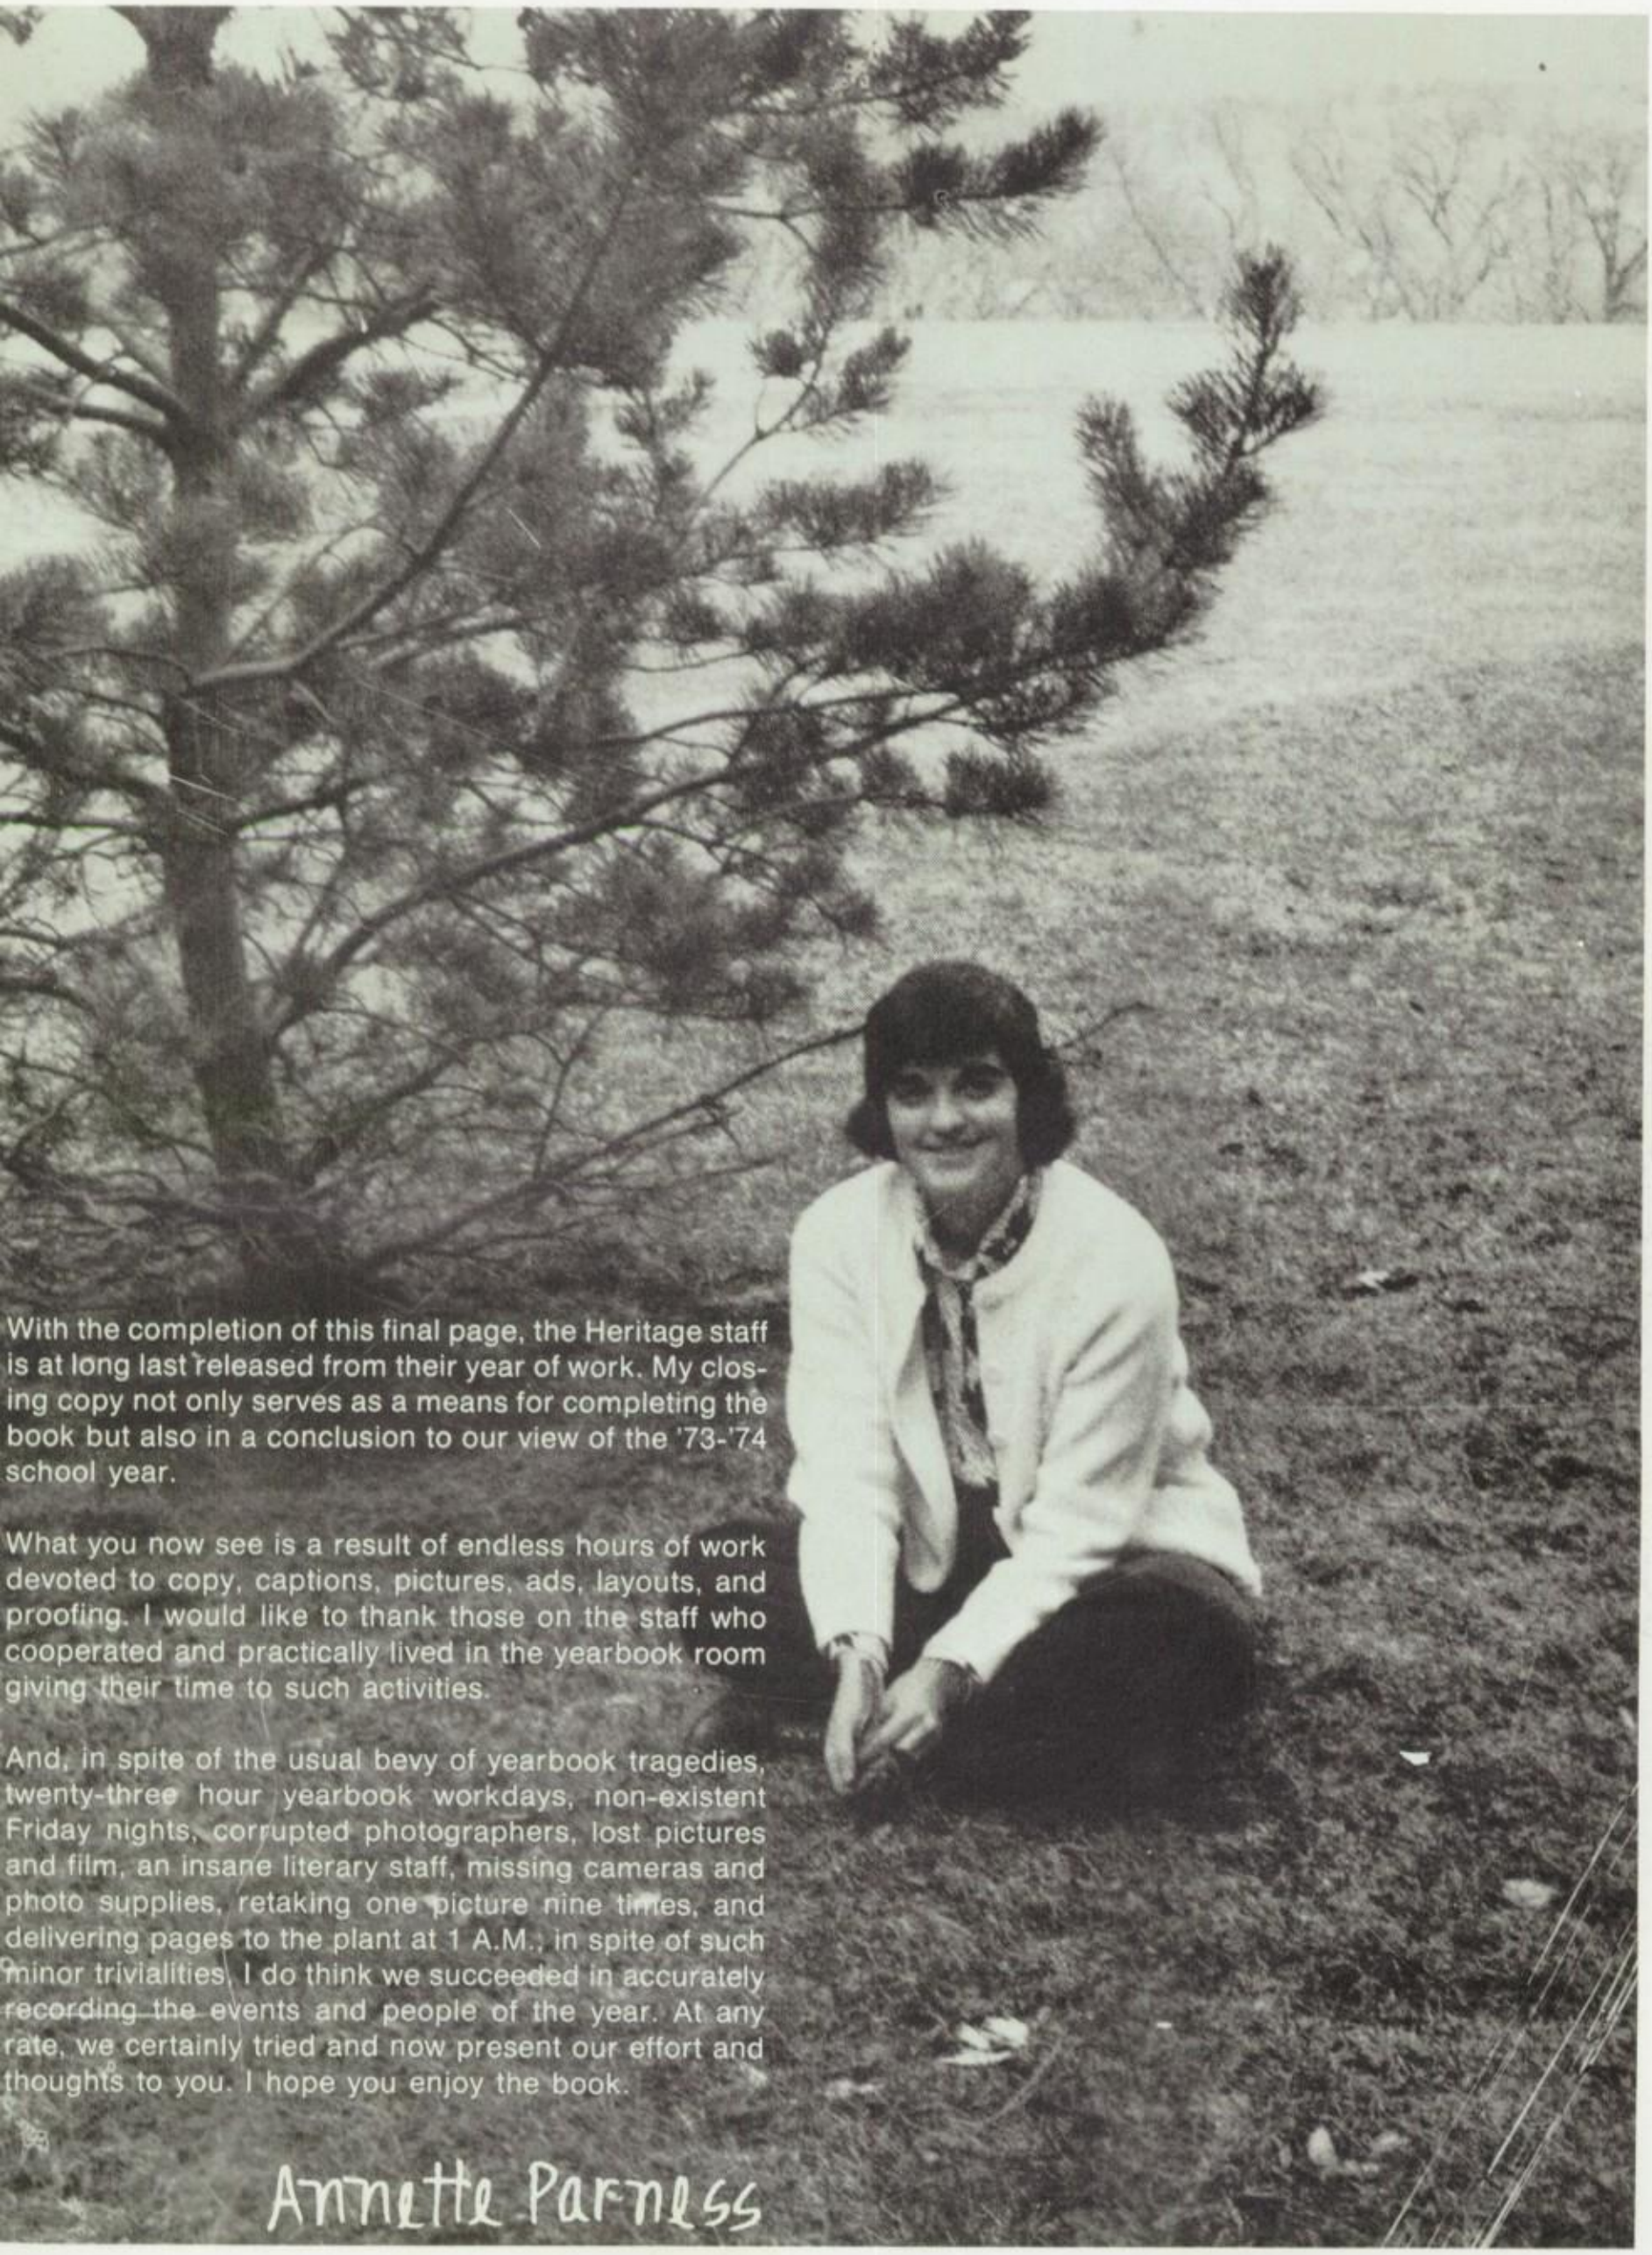
The 1974 Heritage staff would like to thank the individuals who helped in the production of the book. We would like to extend a special thanks to Mrs. Cathy Zumbehl, our advisor, and to Mr. Bob Gadd and Mr. James Garrett, our representatives from Inter-Collegiate Press. Mr. Than Castle and the people at DeCloud's Studio helped the staff with formal pictures. Keith Abrams, Melanie Brauchl, Lorne Robinson, and Lee Stratton made special contributions deserving thanks.

He who learns from his fellow a single chapter, a single rule, a single verse, a single expression, or even a single letter, ought to pay him honour.



With the completion of this final page, the Heritage staff is at long last released from their year of work. My closing copy not only serves as a means for completing the book but also in a conclusion to our view of the '73-'74 school year.

What you now see is a result of endless hours of work devoted to copy, captions, pictures, ads, layouts, and proofing. I would like to thank those on the staff who cooperated and practically lived in the yearbook room giving their time to such activities.

And, in spite of the usual bevy of yearbook tragedies, twenty-three hour yearbook workdays, non-existent Friday nights, corrupted photographers, lost pictures and film, an insane literary staff, missing cameras and photo supplies, retaking one picture nine times, and delivering pages to the plant at 1 A.M., in spite of such minor trivialities, I do think we succeeded in accurately recording the events and people of the year. At any rate, we certainly tried and now present our effort and thoughts to you. I hope you enjoy the book.

Annette Parness

I feel that even though some people might appear to be alike their resemblance
does not imply
conformity, uniformity
